

Sir David Landale Prize

Sir David Landale was the Chairman of the Crichton Endowment Trust which later became the Crichton Foundation. After his retiral as Convenor he became the Foundation's Honorary President. Sir David played a vital role in establishing a university Campus at the Crichton and was a regular attender at Foundation events as well as a great supporter of our work.

Following his death in March 2016 Sir David bequeathed a sum of money to the Foundation. The monies are to be used to fund an annual prize to a student on the Campus. His wishes state:

“Initially but with flexibility for the future, £500 yearly will be given to the University student who is nominated for making an outstanding contribution to the Crichton Campus in the Dumfries and Galloway region.”

In 2018 the prize was increased to £1000. Any university student who is enrolled on a course of study at any of the Crichton Campus institutions is eligible. Nominations must be made on the appropriate application form, they must be submitted electronically by a member of academic staff. Forms can be downloaded from the Crichton Foundation website www.crichtonfoundation.org
